

Mizuna Red Kingdom F₁
AAS Edible Winner

Foodies take note! All-America Selections has never had a mizuna (Japanese mustard) as a winner, much less a beautifully colored variety. Red Kingdom is a great addition to the assortment of AAS Winners now available to the home garden and fresh garden markets. Judges noted how the color was a vibrant reddish-purple all through the season and suggested that this flavorful, mild tasting green is an edible that can also be used as an ornamental in containers or in the landscape. Gardeners will appreciate how this variety did not bolt as easily as other mizunas and produced a much higher yield throughout the season, standing up to mid-season heat.

AAS[®] Winner Data

Genus species: Brassica juncea

Common name: Mizuna, Japanese mustard

Leaf flavor: Very flavorful and mild

Leaf color: Glossy dark purple

Plant type: Biennial

Plant width/spread: 15 inches

Plant habit: Low growing

Garden location: Full sun

Garden spacing: 1 inch

Length of time to harvest: 3-5 weeks from sowing seed

Closest comparisons on market: Komatsuna Red Fine F1, Garnet Red

ALL-AMERICA SELECTIONS

1311 Butterfield Road
Suite 310
Downers Grove, IL
60515

630-963-0770
www.aaswinners.com

Tested Nationally & Proven Locally[®]

www.aaswinners.com

